

The Classic Chair Company
London

LOSOL "MELIDEN" DINING SET

LOSOL "Meliden" Dining set

KEELING & Co Ltd LOSOL WARE "Meliden" Dining set for 6, plus serving dishes

A beautiful "flow" blue set, from KEELING & Co LTD, BURSLEM, one of the famous Stoke Potteries.

It is decorated with alternating patterns, and embellished with gilt highlights around the rims. These include a bird in the topiary who seems surprised to find she's laid that extra egg.

This set would have been produced between 1909 and 1936.

It comprises of 6 each dining, entrée, side, and soup plates, plus two platters, two sizes of octagonal lidded tureens, and stand and a ladle (32 pcs)

model code:ANT MI Lot0:G108

Historical note: "flow" blue is a style of white porcelain or earthenware that originated in the Regency era in England, sometime in the 1820s, among the Stoke potters of Staffordshire.

The name is derived from the blue glaze that blurred or "flowed" during the firing process. This sometimes had very attractive results, and has become highly collectable today.

Price: THB 23,000

The Classic Chair Company
London

PRODUCT DESCRIPTION

LOSOL "Meliden" Dining set

KEELING & Co Ltd LOSOL WARE "Meliden" Dining set for 6, plus serving dishes

A beautiful "flow" blue set, from KEELING & Co LTD, BURSLEM, one of the famous Stoke Potteries.

It is decorated with alternating patterns, and embellished with gilt highlights around the rims. These include a bird in the topiary who seems surprised to find she's laid that extra egg.

This set would have been produced between 1909 and 1936.

It comprises of 6 each dining, entrée, side, and soup plates, plus two platters, two sizes of octagonal lidded tureens, and stand and a ladle (32 pcs)

model code:ANT MI Lot0:G108

Historical note: "flow" blue is a style of white porcelain or earthenware that originated in the Regency era in England, sometime in the 1820s, among the Stoke potters of Staffordshire.

The name is derived from the blue glaze that blurred or "flowed" during the firing process. This sometimes had very attractive results, and has become highly collectable today.

Price: THB 23,000